1. Assess what you've done so far in high school:

- Decide if your study skills are adequate or if changes need to be made.
 - Continue to be focused and organized on all of your tasks.

2. Continue being prepared:

- Taking the PSAT in 8th and 9th grades was good practice. You will take the PSAT again in October.
- When PSAT scores arrive, your counselor will lead you through an analysis of each section with explanations for questions missed.
 - Continue preparing for the SAT using online resources such as Khan Academy.

3. Continue looking ahead:

- Continue thinking about what interests you, in and out of school.
- Start fine tuning your college and career options. Be looking online at colleges, majors, and admissions requirements.
 - Continue building on your list of activities in and out of school. Colleges look at extra-curricular activities in addition to your grades and test scores.
 - Begin browsing scholarship websites.
- Be looking over GAfutures, CollegeBoard, and ACT websites, and utilize resources found on these websites.
